

Control as an instrument of management and institution of economic security

Akhmetshin E., Vasilev V.

Kazan Federal University, 420008, Kremlevskaya 18, Kazan, Russia

Abstract

1. Introduction. The paper is relevant due to economic security level recession of the Russian economy in recent years. It is proposed to provide the interaction of socio-economic development indicators of the country and established control measures in the policy intended to improve the economic security of the country. It is proposed to use the institutional approach to solve the problem. 2. Methods. The main methodological basis of the paper is an institutional nature of economic relations that is expressed through an interrelated sequence of the following stages: institutions - motivation - control. In the paper, such research methods were used as the institutional approach, analysis and synthesis of historical data, the laws of dialectics, and a method of cause-effect relationships. 3. Results. This paper represents the author's recommendations for the transfer of external (negative) manifestations of control to internal (constructive) forces of cooperation. Control is disclosed as an institution necessary to provide economic security and as a condition for the effective implementation of the socio-economic strategy. The current economic security of the country is assessed on the basis of study of current macroeconomic indicators for the Russian Federation. Threats and causes of low economic security are formulated. The measures to address them are proposed. 4. Discussion. The institutional approach is known as one of the modern successful methods to describe economic relations. The problem of increasing the economic security is not solved. Increasing the effectiveness of the control measures to ensure the economic security using the institutional approach is necessary. The paper describes the theoretical and methodological basis for the study of the institutional mechanism (system of institutions) of economic security in order to increase the efficiency of monitoring the implementation of the system of institutions. A study of the properties and the nature of the institutions as recognized, purposeful and repetitive activity of economic agents aimed at the implementation and monitoring of the strategy to improve economic security is carried out. 5. Closing statement. Features of the institutional environment to provide economic security are revealed. The measures to improve the institutional chain of ensuring economic security of Russia through the effective functioning of the control system are proposed.

Keywords

Control, Economic Security, Institute Of Safety, Institution, Institutional Approach, Institutional Mechanism, Management, System of Control